- Discover how several Connecticut regional math education organizations can help support your professional growth
- Make connections with like-minded colleagues
- Build greater awareness of math leadership opportunities
- Discover how to make a greater impact within the regular classroom, working across several schools within a district, or at the state and national level.
- Hear inspiring stories from a select number of math teachers and educators as they share their professional growth journeys in becoming math leaders in their schools and communities.

Each sponsoring organization will share a very brief overview of the support and services they offer to math teachers and leaders in Connecticut. There will be lots of informal time to meet and talk with colleagues as you enjoy a variety of delicious hors d'oeuvres and soft drinks.
